Not illustrated. 1908 Excerpt: .the pilasters of the main frame were narrow pilasters of the same height as the columns.³ Together they bore an entablature, which sprang directly from the main pilasters, and after projecting over the columns was carried along the facades above the smaller openings. Above this entablature, over each of the smaller openings, a framed window filled the space between the main pilasters as far as the architrave. Inside the central piers four spiral stairs led to two rooms over the side openings, lighted by the four windows of the facades. There was also a large room over the main passageway of which the means of lighting are not known. No. 39. Palmyra (Syria). From the arrangement of the pilasters, reminding one of the free column system of this period, in that one member stands before another, and from the amount and technique of the decoration, it seems best to class the arch of Palmyra with the other arches of Hadrian. The arch is of unique construction, in that the facades are not parallel. The facade toward the city is at right angles to the street over which it is placed. The other deviates about 15 degrees toward the east, probably to harmonize with some building on that side. Transverse passageways exist in the piers, one in the narrower of the piers adjoining the central passageway, two in the broader pier opposite, and two in the pier at the broad end of the arch. The crowns of...
