PARIS, OU LE LIVRE DE CENT-ET-UN (12 )

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 48 pages. OCLC Number: (OCoLC)54843328 Subject: Consumer protection -- United States. Excerpt: . . . he Red Cross provides, are essential to us all in times of great need. For someone to put an organization of the Red Cross caliber at jeopardy by attempting to steal personal information from its blood donors is deplorable. I hope the Federal law enforcement agencies currently pursuing such actions will quickly find the perpetrators and swiftly bring them to justice. We will also hear today testimony from representatives from the private sector organizations that have to contend with identity theft, Bob Ryan from TransUnion and Missy Lenahan from a local financial institution, First National Bank and Trust. Banks are on the front line of this type of fraud, fielding the initial calls from victims and taking most of the financial losses. We will hear from Betsy Broder of the Federal Trade Commission, and Kevin Burke of the U. S. Postal Inspection Service this morning. They will discuss their efforts to assist victims and to chase down the fraudsters who so callously use other peoples identities for their own purposes. John Abel from the Pennsylvania Attorney Generals Office and Lieutenant Colonel Ralph M. Periandi from the Pennsylvania State Police will testify about their offices efforts to combat this problem here at home and what services they can offer to victims. I want to thank everybody for participating this morning. We want to provide the public with as much assistive information as we can this morning as to what steps they can take to avoid becoming victims, and in the event that they do fall victim to this fraud, what they can do to stop the financial bleeding as quickly as possible. We recognize...
