

Mao, Stalin and the Korean War: Trilateral Communist Relations in the 1950s (Cold War History (Routledge))

By Zhihua, Shen

Routledge, 2013. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "A translation of a study published a decade ago in Chinese, provides a useful reminder of the continuing utility of old fashioned approaches, as well as their limitations. Through a meticulous reconstruction of the available evidence on what Soviet, Chinese, and North Korean diplomats and decision-makers said to each other, Chinese scholar Shen Zhihua provides a vivid account of the origins and course of the Korean War from the Communist side, especially the period before the commencement of armistice negotiations in July 1951." - Dr. William W. Stueck, Department of History , The University of Georgia, U.S.A., in e-International Relations, 2012 "Shen Zhihua is one of China's foremost Cold War historians, [known for his] unusually dispassionate and archive-based treatment of a politically sensitive episode in China's modern history, its so-called "War to Resist America and Assist Korea." Now, thanks to translator Neil Silver, a retired US diplomat, Shen's illuminating writings on the Korean War are accessible to readers in English. Drawing on Soviet archives, Shen reconstructs the mind of Joseph Stalin as he plotted a course that put "Greater Russia"s" national security interests first,...
